Application Guide

We are delighted that you have shown interest in our school and appreciate the effort and thoughtful reflection you give this application. The application enables us to carefully assess whether Beit Rabban is a good match for your child and for your family. Below is an outline of the application components. Please contact us with any questions you may have.

1) Application for Admission

Please complete the form and return it to our office with a $125 non-refundable application fee. Make your check payable to: Beit Rabban Day School.

2) Parent Questionnaire

As parent/guardian, you are able to offer the most comprehensive view of your child. We ask you to take time to reflect and respond to questions about your child's development and personality, as well as questions which help us get to know you as a family. Please type your responses, number them in accordance with the questions, and attach them to the question sheet.

3) Teacher Report (if applicable)

Please fill out the first page of the form and give it to your child's current teacher or (pre)school program director. Please give the person responding enough time to complete the questionnaire, and ask him/her to return the form directly to Beit Rabban by the December 31st, 2011 deadline.

4) Standardized Testing (K and above applicants ONLY)

A standardized test is required for admission to grades Kindergarten and above. Beit Rabban accepts the results of either the Education Records Bureau (ERB) or the Wechsler Preschool and Primary Scale of Intelligence (WPPSI) exam. Please see the additional information sheet about standardized testing.

5) School Visit and Observation

As part of the admissions process, all applicants visit the school and participate in a small friendly playgroup with their peers. The forty-five minute visit consists of time in a classroom in which we will observe your child in a social and educational environment. When all parts of the application are completed, we will contact you to schedule a date and time for your child's school visit.

The Admissions office will work with parents of children applying from outside of the United States to coordinate observations and peer interactions in the home country.

Tuition and Financial Aid

Tuition Rates for the 2012-2013 school year will be determined by the Beit Rabban Board of Trustees when it meets in December/January to set tuition rates for the next academic year.

Beit Rabban makes great effort to provide financial aid to families who would otherwise be unable to afford a day school education and who want to be part of the Beit Rabban community. Financial aid applications and awards are decided separate from the application process and do not affect a child's admission to the school.

How is financial aid awarded?

When determining financial aid many factors are taken into account including the number of children attending school, sources of income, expenses such as rent, mortgage, car payments or medical expenses etc. The total number of financial aid applicants also impacts the amount available to be awarded to individual families.

How do I apply for financial aid?

Beit Rabban utilizes an outside third party company, FACTS Grant & Aid Assessment, to conduct the financial need analysis for applicants for the 2012-13 school year. Families applying for financial aid will need to complete an online application beginning November 1, 2011 at: www.factstuitionaid.com and submit the necessary supporting documentation to FACTS.

Will financial aid be automatically renewed each year?

Families must re-apply each year. Aid is renewed based on a family's current financial need and the dollars available for distribution. Although a family's financial need may remain similar from year to year, the ability to grant the same level of financial assistance is dependent upon the total need of all families and the dollars available for distribution.

What if my financial situation changes after a tuition contract is signed?

As a family's situation changes, they may always request financial assistance for the first time or request a review of their new information. In addition, families who find that they have a change in economics that increase their ability to contribute towards tuition will also be asked to have their award reviewed so that a new contract can be created.

What is the source of the money for financial aid?

The cost for educating each child is approximately $6,500 dollars above the average tuition rate; in essence, since tuition does not cover the cost of educating a student at Beit Rabban, all of our families are in effect receiving some kind of financial assistance. Those families who receive additional financial aid are receiving a reduction in tuition that is covered through a combination of fundraising and our annual budget. As an independent school, we receive very limited federal, state and city funding and must account for almost all of the Beit Rabban budget through tuition and fundraising.

Who determines the actual award amount?

Final award decisions are granted by the Beit Rabban Financial Aid Committee, an anonymous committee made up of individuals committed to Beit Rabban Day School. It operates within strict guidelines set by the Board of Trustees and is directed to maintain complete confidentiality regarding families financial background and awards.

8 West 70th Street, New York, NY 10023 (212) 595-1386(t) (212) 579-7512 (f) admissions@beitrabban.org

Yes. You can appeal the award amount and should contact Rabbi Andrew Davids, Executive Director, at adavids@beitrabban.org for further information about the appeals process.

Must my child be a certain age by a specific date to attend Beit Rabban?

Beit Rabban has established age guidelines for its early childhood program and its Elementary school program. However, we evaluate each child on an individual basis to determine his/her readiness and fitness for our school and do not hold hard and fast to absolute birthdates.

In general, children applying to the Gan program should be at least three years old on September 1st of the year they enter; children entering the Kindergarten should be at least five years old on September 1st of the year they enter.

Does my child need to be toilet trained by the time school starts in September?

Yes. We require that all children attending Beit Rabban be fully toilet trained by the time they begin school in September.

What are the transportation options to and from school?

Free bus transportation is available for students in Kindergarten or older. Through the New York City Office of Pupil Transportation, yellow bus service is provided for most students each day to and from Beit Rabban from the Upper West Side (Manhattan), and the Upper East Side. When applicable, buses or transportation is also coordinated from Downtown and Riverdale (Bronx).

Bus service is based on the age of the child, the distance from the home to the school and the total number of students along the route. Parents of children in the Gan at Beit Rabban must arrange their own transportation to and from school. Please call us if you have questions or concerns about transportation.

How many children and teachers are in each class?

The Gan at Beit Rabban has classes with 8-12 children in the younger (3-4 year olds) classes, and 12-15 children in the older (4 year olds – Pre-K) class. Each of these classes has two full-time teachers.

The elementary school class size averages 12-18 children and, depending upon class size, one and half to two full-time teachers. Children break into smaller learning groups for reading, writing, math, Hebrew, and Chumash in order to provide more individualized learning.

We are dedicated to keeping a low teacher/student ratio and to having classes that are large enough to provide a variety of personalities and interests and diverse social possibilities for the children, while remaining small enough that all participants in the community, children and teachers alike, know each other well and are comfortable in their environment.

Does Beit Rabban offer afterschool programming?

We offer afterschool programming for the Gan (2:00pm – 3:30pm) and the Elementary program (3:30pm – 4:30/5:00pm) Mondays through Thursdays. These programs vary depending upon the trimester and each program involves an additional fee.

The following are our offerings for the 2011-2012 academic year:

Gan: Yoga, music, cooking, creative movement, karate, and soccer

Elementary: Soccer, art, chess, aviation, rollerblading, cooking, karate, Beit Midrash, homework club, hip hop, yoga

Can I speak with current Beit Rabban parent to hear about their experience of the school?

Yes! We are happy to connect you to a current parent from the Beit Rabban community. This is one of the best ways to learn about the exciting and unique nature of Beit Rabban learning and the school community.
